PHIL CORCORAN TOO MUCH FOR OLD COMRADES

The inability of the Orators to hit rhil Corcoran and the ability of the Undertakers to connect with Freddie Gibbs' delivery accounted for the defeat of the Bridgeport team yesterday at Newfield, 8-4. It was not, however, the entire fault of Gibbs that the contest was loss three of the the entire fault of Gibbs that the contest was lost, for at least three of the runs were made because of the errors of the local club. New Haven hit Gibbs hard at times, but the brilliant fielding of a number of the Orators, especially Hilt, kept the runs down. Gibbs was chased in the fourth session, "Rube" Pollard being called on to stop the advancing Undertakers: The Rube went along in good style for the remainder of the game, allowing only three hits, two of which came in the eighth resulting in one run.

In the first inning after one was out, Steinhauser misjudged Bertwhistle's fly, which landed in his glove and then bounded out, Bert going to second. Sherwood lined out a three bagger scoring Bert, Zacher singled scoring Sherwood lined out a three bagger scoring Bert, Zacher singled scoring Sherwood. O'Brien hit into a double play. In the second there were two down and two on and Connell was at the bat. He sent up a pop fly to Kocher which the latter dropped. On the next ball pitched he connected for a single to left, scoring one of the base runners. The third saw another for the visitors on two hits, with sac-base runners. The third saw another for the visitors on two hits, with sacrifice hits sandwiched in between.

It was in the fourth that both Bridgeport's and Gibbs' hash were cooked. A base on balls to Waters, a sacrifice by Cornera, a ground ball to first by Conneil, a hit by Bertwhistle, followed by two stolen bases by the same player, and bingles by Sherwood and Zacher collected the trio of runs and the advent of "Rube" Pollard. Rube shut the visitors out till the eighth when a single by Duggan followed by a two bagger by Waters told the last New Haven run.

Detroit Tigers to Meet Orators

At Steeplechase, Sunday, the Detroil Tigers, leaders of the American League and twice winners of the .584 American League pennant, will face .559 the Orators at 3:30 o'clock. Hugh .545 Jennings, the manager, telegraphed .483 today that he would be on hand him-.449 self and would appear on the coaching .432 line. The antics of Jennings with his "Whoop Pee" are worth the attendance at any game. It is the life alone that he inspires into the game that accounts for the winnings of the Tigers. He has also announced that the regular team will be brought along with with no fillings in to take the place of stars. In the lineup there are inof stars. In the lineup there are in-cluded Claude Rossman who played with Holyoke, the one and only Tyrus Cobb. Sam Crawford, Bush, Moriarty, Jones, Wild Bill Donovan, formerly with Hartford, and many other no-ted cracks. The lineup that will be presented Sunday will appear in a la-

PULLIAM DIES THIS MORNING

National League President Semi-Conscious After Shooting Himself

MUTTERED A FEW WORDS

New York, July 29 .- Harry C. Pulliiam, president of the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs, died this morning at 7:40 in his rooms at the New York Athletic Club, 59th street and 6th avenue from a pistol wound selfinflicted. The head of the league, was suffering, it is believed, from some mental disease at the time he fired the fatal shot. He had been in ill-health for many months and two of his outbreaks at the baseball meeting occurred, once in Chicago and once in Cincinnati, forcing him to retire temporarily. Pulliam shot himself at a few moments after nine last night, the ball going completely through his head, knocking out one of his eyes and severing the optic nerve so that even if he could have recovered he would have been blind for life. According to Thomas Brady, an attendant, who was sent to the room as soon as Pulliam shot himself and who placed the dying man under technical arrest for attempt at suicide, Pulliam left no intimation of the cause which Pulliam had been keeping rooms at the Athletic Club which he occupied whenever he was in New York. He returned to his club last night at 8:30 o'clock. He retired but a few moments after 9 the telephone operator saw the light on his number. He answered but received no call from Pulliam. A second later he heard a crash over the telephone as though someone had fallen. Continuing the calls he failed to gt an answer and a bell-boy was sent gt an answer and a bell-boy was sent to see what was the matter. Peering over the transom he saw Pulliam lying on the floor, clad only in his underclothing with blood pouring from a bullet hole in his head.

Pulliam was semi-conscious for a time after he was found, but could make no statement. He was asked why he shot himself and he murmured.

why he shot himself and he murmured "Shot myself? Why I'm not shot."
Then he began talking in a rambling way which could not be understood. Once he said: "Rub my head; my head hurts," but said nothing more that was ntelligible,

Physicians were immediately sumnoned but announced that there was no hope for the baseball leader. Though Pulliam regained conscious-ness two or three times he was unable to give any account of the shooting. #### SENATE ACTION SAVES BARBER COMMISSION

(Special from United Press.) Hartford, July 29.—The Senate to day saved the state barber commis sion by adopting the minority report of the committee on public health and safety instead of the majority report, which was adopted by the House. The which was adopted by the House, bill abolishing the commission giving its powers to local health officers, which was favorably reported by a majority of the committee on public health and safety, was accom panied by a minority report recom-mending the passage of another substitute bill which increases the com-mission, regulates its conduct strictly and provides for it to be paid by to the state. The House paid no attention to the minority report and passed the bill supported by the majority while the Senate this afternoon reversed the decision and passed the minority bill. Senator Middleton led the fight in favor of the retention of the commission, saying that while barbers commissions had not been as they ought in the past, there was too much good in the commission law to threw it aside and a better plan would be to regulate the commission an oblige it to do good work.
